

HOT DETROIT FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

THEATER AND TWO BUSINESS HOUSES IN RUINS

Loss Will Be Over $1,000,000--Fire Department Works Desperately to Save the Downtown Section--Prolonged Drought Has Helped to Spread Forest Fires.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 7.—This city was visited early this morning by a most disastrous fire. The fire started in the rear of the opera house, or in C. H. Michel's warehouse, which closely adjoins it, on the rear. The flames burst out at 12:40 a. m., enveloping all the rear part of the big building. In less than a half hour the ten-story brick building in Gratiot avenue, occupied by the Leonard Furniture Company, was enveloped in flames. The opera house faced a small triangular park opposite the city hall. Flames communicated in places to the row of buildings along the east side of Woodward avenue between the theatre and Gratiot avenue. Within fifteen minutes the entire interior of the opera house was a roaring furnace of flame and the building was practically destroyed.

While the fire apparatus was preparing to throw water the flames spread to the upper stories of a six-story building facing Gratiot avenue. At 1:45 great flames belched from the roof and front of the four-story building occupied by the C. H. Michel Table Supply Company, which adjoins the opera house on the east at the corner of Monroe avenue and the Campus Martius. At 2 o'clock nothing remained of the Leonard building on Gratiot avenue but the steel framework and portions of the walls.

All the new scenery and costumes of the Julia Arthur company, which was playing the first week's production of "A Lady of Quality," was destroyed.

The firemen at 3:05 had the flames under control. In all three great buildings were destroyed. The loss will be between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

DISASTROUS FOREST FIRES.

Prolonged Drought Has Given the Flames the Advantage.

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 7.—The hundreds of farmers who have been fighting the big marsh fires in the south end of the county since Sunday have lost control of them and they are sweeping everything away. From reports received two houses and a dozen barns were consumed Tuesday night, together with hundreds of tons of hay and miles of fences.

Niles, Mich., Oct. 7.—East and north of this city the marsh fires continue. Farmers have fought the flames night and day for a week past and are utterly exhausted. The fire is the worst that has occurred in this vicinity since 1871.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 7.—Forest fires are raging in the eastern part of this county and farmers have organized themselves into squads to fight the flames. Barns, corn in shock and acres of winter wheat which was dried up have been destroyed.

Caro, Mich., Oct. 7.—Forest fires are raging south and east of Kingston. A change of wind would place the village of Kingston in immediate danger. Wilmot village is surrounded by fire and will surely burn if help is not given the exhausted residents.

Toledo, O., Oct. 7.—Information comes from Wood county that disastrous forest fires are raging and that many thousands of dollars worth of property have been destroyed. Crops and timber are reported swept from a large area and the oil districts are in grave danger.

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 7.—The Canada Atlantic railroad has not yet been able to get to Casselman on account of the fire which started in that vicinity Tuesday, and which raged all night. At South Indian, which has a population of 500, there are only three or four houses standing. The fire covered a distance of about twenty-five miles. Four bodies have been recovered near South Indian, as a result of the forest fires.

BURNS 20 ACRES.

Fire Sweeps Away Forty-Two Buildings at the Chicago Stockyards.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Ten acres of smoldering, smoking ruins bear record to the destructiveness of the fire that threatened to wipe out the whole stock yards district, and with it a goodly part of the city of Chicago. That it did not result in almost as huge a loss of property as that which made the great Chicago fire famous may be set down to the direct interposition of a kindly Providence. The conditions were all favorable. Months of continued dry weather had rendered frame buildings inflammable to a degree which needed only a small inducement to pass from a potential to an active state.

A strong wind blew from the west and southwest that fanned the flames into furious vigor, and, aided by the draught the flames themselves created, carried embers and fire-brands as easily as dead leaves and bits of paper and strewn them lavishly and almost fatally for blocks to the eastward of the origin of the fire.

From Halsted street to the lake lies nearly four miles of closely built and well-populated residences, and the fire started to change this fair section of the city into black, smoking ruins. Then mercifully the wind lost its intensity, and changed its direction, and the imminent danger was past, but not before the three blocks east of Halsted street between Forty-second and Forty-fifth streets were scorched and partly destroyed. The losses by the fire were about $75,000.

In spite of the immense area of the burning structures, and the peril which constantly beset the firemen in their fight against the flames, but few were injured. One unknown man is reported missing. But two firemen were injured, though two employes of the stock yards and a spectator met with accidents.

SEVEN DIE IN A FIRE.

Burning of a Dormitory at South Dakota Girls' Industrial School.

Plankinton, S. D., Oct. 7.—Seven persons lie dead here as the result of a fire which destroyed the girls' dormitory at the State Industrial school between 12 and 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. The dead:

TILLIE HOOPER, in charge of the sewing department.

NELLIE JOHNSTON, aged 13, of Grafton, N. D.

MABEL FOBERT, aged 9, of Sioux Falls.

BESSIE KIRBY, aged 14, of Hot Springs.

IVA WARNER, aged 16, of Watertown.

CHRISTINA BERGMAN, aged 11, of Yankton.

LILLIAN WEST, aged 11, of Sioux Falls.

All others, numbering about twenty-five, succeeded in escaping, but they saved nothing and had no time to dress, getting out in their night robes and with great difficulty.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have caught from the explosion of a lamp. The loss is about $25,000, and includes the printing office of the institution and the chapel.

Those who perished in the flames got out of the building, but returned for clothing, and it is supposed they became bewildered. There is no insurance whatever on the building, but it is learned that Gov. Lee will order its reconstruction at once.

BIG FIRE AT MEDORA, ILL.

Twenty Buildings in the Business District Destroyed.

Carlinville, Ill., Oct. 7.—A disastrous fire Wednesday morning nearly wiped out the business portion of Medora, a thriving town of 1,200 inhabitants in the southwest portion of Macoupin county, situated on the Bluff line and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad. The only buildings saved in Locust street were the National hotel, Wilkerson's store and the opera house. Twenty buildings in all were consumed.

Nearly all of the buildings were frame, and, as the only means of fighting the flames were a hand engine and bucket brigades, the town was practically helpless.

C. W. Tietzert, a banker of the place, reckons the loss at $50,000 and says there is barely $10,000 of insurance. The fire, it is supposed, was set by malicious persons. The citizens held a meeting and resolved to make every effort to rebuild without delay, and it is believed that extensive improvements will be made.

YELLOW FEVER WORSE.

Forty-Six New Cases and Five Deaths at New Orleans.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 7.—The yellow fever here is advancing rapidly. Wednesday broke all previous records, forty-six new cases and five deaths having occurred. The number of cases which have developed in this now is 425, and the deaths number forty-three.

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 7.—The total cases of yellow fever here reached the hundred mark Wednesday. The actual total to date at noon was ninety-nine; total deaths to date, sixteen. There were no deaths reported and only four new cases.

Edwards, Miss., Oct. 7.—Dr. Dunn of the state board of health gave out a report of sixteen new cases of fever Wednesday.

Indians Become Lawless.

Pocatello, Idaho, Oct. 7.—A letter from Challis, in Custer county, says the depredations of the bands of Indians from the Fort Hall and Fort Lemhi reservations are becoming unendurable and that any day is likely to see blood shed between them and the white settlers. The Indians regard neither the laws of the state nor the rights of the settlers and are insolent and threatening when interfered with by the settlers. The letter says that the settlers have endured this thing long enough, and if the government does not see to the placing of the Indians back on their reservations they will take matters into their own hands and exterminate them.

Settlers in Danger.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 7.—The forest fires that have been raging in Manitoba, close to the boundary line, for the past ten days have broken out more furiously than ever. Ten or twelve persons are reported to have been burned to death and the fire is rapidly spreading and crossing over the boundary into North Dakota.

Owners Concede Demands of Miners.

Lincoln, Ill., Oct. 7.—At last the differences between the operators and miners of the Citizens' Coal Mining company have been settled, the operators conceding the demands of the diggers. The owners agreed to pay the scale, 42½ cents gross weight, mine run, and let men with families return to work at once.

CUBAN AUTONOMY LIKELY TO COME

PREMIER SAGASTA PROMISES RELIEF TO THE ISLAND.

Shrewd Diplomatic Move—The Offer Is Not Likely to Be Accepted by the Cubans But America's Hands Are Tied—Weyler Will Not Resign His Office In Cuba.

London, Oct. 7.—The first important step of the new Spanish government was taken at a cabinet meeting Wednesday evening. This was a decision to grant autonomy to Cuba.

So far as learned in the meager telegrams received here, this plan of autonomy is to be subject to the suzerainty of Spain. Information is lacking as to its scope over legislation and taxation, the most significant factors in the self-government of any country. From the fact, however, that the statement is made that the Sagasta ministry intends to continue the campaign in Cuba so long as rebellion exists, the logical deduction is that the autonomy agreed on is limited—that it will not satisfy the insurgent leaders.

But whether limited or liberal, it is feared here this concession to the rebels will create a storm in Spain. Taken in connection with a dispatch saying that Weyler has refused to resign as captain general, thus compelling the Sagasta government to recall him, the affair will furnish effective campaign material for the Spanish conservatives. The latter will undoubtedly point to Weyler's determined operations against the Cubans and tell the electors that his withdrawal means the island will be lost to Spain.

With relation to American intervention, Sagasta's step is considered shrewd diplomacy in that it will tend to postpone a settlement. Diplomats here say that America's hands are now virtually tied until the autonomy plan is given a trial in Cuba.

FOUR MINISTERS QUIT.

Methodist Conference Acts—Little Interest Taken in Laid Representation.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Two hours sufficed to dispose of the preliminary business attendant upon the opening of the Rock River conference at the Western Avenue church Wednesday morning. In that time four ministers were dropped from the conference roll, officers of the conference were elected, standing committees named, a trial board appointed to investigate the charges against Dr. R. A. Morley. A sermon and a lecture filled up the afternoon session and at night the anniversary of the Church Extension society was celebrated. The conference settled down to business this morning when the reports of the presiding elders were read.

At night the anniversary of the Church Extension society was celebrated in the presence of a congregation which crowded the church to the doors. The Rev. Frank M. Bristol of Evanston presided, and addresses were given by the Rev. W. A. Spencer and Dr. Manly S. Hard.

But little interest appears to be taken in the laity's representation question. It will probably not come before the conference until after tomorrow, when the lay brethren will meet at the First church and discuss plans for bringing the matter up.

SOAP STORY ATTACKED.

State Begins to Tear Away the Defense Made by Luetgert.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—The state began hammering at the Luetgert defense Tuesday and several blows were given which the state's attorney believes will be effective. Evidence was offered to show that never since the closing of the factory and probably not before, did Luetgert have 800 pounds of tallow. This is the amount his witnesses have said he placed in the middle vat for the purpose of making soap on the night of May 1.

Many witnesses swore they would not believe Matthew Sholey under oath. It was shown that Luetgert never had 800 pounds of tallow after the factory closed. Albert Brinkhoff declared that he took the tallow and bones from the Luetgert factory on the morning of May 1.

Station Platform Falls.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—A part of the station platform of the Kansas City & Independence electric line in this city gave way at 6:50 o'clock Wednesday letting seventy-five persons fall twenty feet into a gully. Thirty were hurt, four, it is thought, fatally. E. L. Morse, the Excelsior Springs, Mo., politician, said to be slated to succeed Filley as chairman of the Republican state committee, was injured internally.

Charles A. Dana Very Low.

Glen Cove, L. I., Oct. 7.—The condition of Charles A. Dana, the editor of the Sun, became so much worse Wednesday that the family were summoned to his bedside. Just what turn his condition may take the physicians attending him are unable to foretell.

Methodists at Dubuque, Iowa.

Dubuque, Iowa, Oct. 7.—The church of St. Luke was crowded Tuesday at the opening of the forty-second session of the upper Iowa conference. The reports from Cornell college, the Upper Iowa university and Epworth seminary showed these institutions to be in a flourishing condition.

LESSEN LIFE LOSS ON RAILROADS

RAILROADS ADOPT SAFETY APPLIANCES.

Ask An Extension of Time—They Have Had Five Years to Provide a Good Brake System and Automatic Car Couplers—Freight Trains Have Yet to Be Equipped.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The interstate commerce commission will hold a full meeting in this city the latter part of next week. By far the most important question which will come before the commission this fall will be that of the extension of the time in which the railroads of the country engaged in interstate commerce must equip their trains with train-brake systems and automatic car couplers.

The act compelling the railroads to equip their trains was passed in the closing hours of the Harrison administration after a protracted and bitter contest. The act was approved March 2, 1893, and gave the railroads about five years, or until Jan. 1, 1898, to comply with the law. The same act provided that the railroads should equip their cars with hand-rails and draw-bars before July 1, 1895.

The whole purpose of this legislation was to insure greater safety for passengers and to give greater security to brakemen and other railroad employees in coupling and uncoupling cars.

Before the time for equipping the cars with hand-rails and draw-bars had expired many of the railroads petitioned the commission for an extension. This the commission was empowered to grant, and extended the time when the operation of that portion of the act relating to hand-rails and draw-bars should go into effect from July 1, 1895, to Feb. 1, 1896.

The commission is now beginning to receive petitions asking for an extension of the time in which the other sections of the act, providing for automatic couplers and train brakes, shall go into effect, and before Jan. 1 they must decide this important question. The railroads ask from one to ten years longer than the law provides.

The last annual report of the commission shows that 1,811 railroad employees were killed during the year, and 25,696 injured, a decrease of 12 in the number of killed and 2,274 in the number of the injured as compared with the previous year. The decrease in both killed and wounded is largely attributable to the improvement and more general use of safety appliances.

PLAY A POOR GAME.

Boston Makes Little Effort to Take the Third Game from Baltimore.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 7.—The Boston club put in a weak battery Tuesday—Lewis and Lake—and before the third inning was ended the game was decided. The result was a game which looked more like one intentionally lost than any other seen here this year. It ended the season here, with a bad taste in everybody's mouth. Hoffer did the pitching for Baltimore. In the eighth inning it began to rain smartly, and as Boston had no show to win Umpire Emslie called the game, the score reverting to the end of the seventh inning.

At night a banquet was given to the members of the two teams, by the 150 rooters who went to Baltimore, in Faneuil hall. Saturday the Temple cup series will be resumed at Baltimore, the standing being one game for Boston and two for Baltimore. Yesterday's score:

Baltimore 0 4 4 0 0 0—8

Boston 0 3 0 0 0 0—3

ILLINOIS W. C. T. U.

State Convention at Champaign Formally Opened for Business.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 7.—The second day of the state convention of the W. C. T. U. opened with a business session Wednesday morning in the Presbyterian church in this city. This meeting was the formal opening of the convention, and the addresses of welcome were delivered. The executive committee reported a small, outstanding debt, but its removal was accomplished by a vote that each union in the state be assessed $2.

In the afternoon the attention of the convention was taken up by the reports of the superintendents of the various committees, and the night's program included devotional exercises, led by Mrs. Jessie Brown Hilton of Evanston, and the annual president's address by Mrs. Louise Rounds, state president of the W. C. T. U.

Mitchell's Lynchers Go Free.

Urbana, Ohio, Oct. 7.—"We have examined twenty-one witnesses in the matter of the hanging of Charles Mitchell, and after a thorough and searching examination have been unable to ascertain such evidence as would warrant us in returning an indictment against any person or persons." Such is that portion of the grand jury's report to the common pleas court made relative of the sensational lynching of "Click" Mitchell, the negro, in the courthouse yard June 4 last.

EXPRESS TRAIN HELD UP.

Another Robbery of Chicago and Alton Near Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—Bandits held up a Chicago and Alton express train Wednesday night at a point less than six miles from Kansas City. The robbery is the third occurring on the railroad within a year, all within fifteen miles of this city.

The Chicago and St. Louis express, which pulled out of the Union depot at 8:30 Wednesday evening, was stopped by eight masked men at Evanston, a suburban stopping place just beyond Washington park. The brakemen were compelled to uncouple the baggage and express cars from the passenger coaches. While this was being done, one of the robbers busied himself by going through the pockets of Conductor Graves, who was robbed of $22 in coin. The robbers attempted to open the express safes by the use of dynamite, but failed. They then allowed the train to proceed.

County Marshal Chiles and several deputies, as well as a squad of city police left for the scene of the robbery at midnight on a special train.

To Prevent Rioting Among Miners.

Port Townsend, Wash., Oct. 7.—Since the movement toward Klondike began dumping all sorts and conditions of men at St. Michael, Alaska. The gathering has been getting worse from month to month, and, as a result, the Rush and Corwin are now at St. Michael ready to land men at a moment's notice and put a stop to any trouble which might, considering the fierceness of the miners, quickly spread into a riot. The marines will remain at St. Michael until all possibility of trouble is passed.

Fight on Bartley's Evidence.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 7.—The case of the state against ex-Treasurer Bartley and his bondsmen to recover over $500,000 was resumed Wednesday, being the tenth day of the contest. It becomes more complicated as it proceeds. Bartley himself is one of the defendants in this civil suit and the bondsmen constantly raise questions that evidence which is relevant as against Bartley is not admissible as against them. An expert accountant testified that the exact amount of cash missing was $555,728.

What the nature of the message is can only be conjectured.

THIS STATE MADE THE MALT CENTER

MILWAUKEE TO BE THE HEADQUARTERS.

More Grain to Pass to the Eastern Warehouses of the New Trust By Way of Milwaukee Than By Chicago—Superiority of Wisconsin Barley.

Milwaukee, Oct. 7.—Not only will the output of the three Milwaukee plants absorbed by the American Malt company be increased but Milwaukee is to be the purchasing center of the big concern. More grain will pass to the malt houses of the company in the east by way of Milwaukee than by way of Chicago, despite the advantages Chicago possesses in railroad facilities. It is not because of Milwaukee's lake and rail connections that this city assumes so prominent a place, but because Wisconsin barley is the best in the world.

Wisconsin barley has always commanded a higher price than that grown in other states. It is of such superior grade that the American Malt company is preparing to take all of it that is offered; and the capacity of the company is so large that there will hereafter be a constant market for barley in Milwaukee—for the Wisconsin product at any rate.

There is more of a demand for Wisconsin barley in the east than for the cheaper Dakota barley shipped by way of Chicago.

Miners Want Short Hours.

Brazil, Ind., Oct. 7.—The block coal miners here are determined to adopt the eight-hour system and work only five days a week. They believe by doing this they can keep down the production of coal, and thus secure steady employment. The operators are greatly opposed to the movement, as they have large contracts on hand that must be filled soon. An effort is being made by the leaders of the miners to have a meeting called to pass on the new system of work.

THE ODD FELLOWS ARE FULL OF FIGHT

STOCKMAN INSURANCE SUIT WILL BE APPEALED.

It Will Be Made a Test Case—No Action Exactly Like It Has Ever Been Finally Decided—Cooperative Insurance Interests Throughout the State Interested.

Attorneys interested in the case of Assignee J. L. Fulton for the Wisconsin Odd-Fellows Mutual Life Association and John Stockman, report of which appeared in these columns yesterday state that although there was no stipulation to that effect the case was selected for a test and it is practically certain that it will be on the circuit court calendar this fall.

The contention of the defendant in this trial was in effect that the plaintiff was not liable for any of the assessments after he dropped out. It was shown that the company had never tried to collect lapsed assessments. It did not carry them on its books as unpaid assessments and never reported them as such to the State Insurance Commissioner. Moreover it took in minors from whom it could not force collection. At different times within its history it sent notices to those in default, offering to reinstate members upon a certificate from a physician that they were in good health, but making no reference to any liability on the part of the ex-members for assessments that had lapsed previous to the date of the notice.

In the case in question it seems that the defendant, John Stockman, served notice on the company, after he had received notice of two assessments, that he desired to withdraw. Subsequently he received notices of two more assessments, making four in all. All of these were made within sixty days of the date of last payment, by the defendant to the plaintiff.

The jury which in justice court is a judge of the law as well as facts held, after short deliberation, the plaintiff to be responsible for the two assessments that had been received and were due between the date of his last payment and the date of his notice of withdrawal.

Each of the eighty-eight remaining actions are of course liable to a separate trial by jury in the justice court. However, it is probable that they will be a justed on a basis of a circuit or a supreme court decision in the case now under way. They present many points of similarity. Notices of withdrawal were given in many instances to proper officials at a specified time within the sixty days after the last assessment had been paid.

Attorneys who have examined the digest say that there has been no decision from a court of record on the essential points presented in these cases, with the exception of a decision of the municipal court of Oshkosh, which was in favor of the plaintiff. However, in this particular action the defense did not advance points which are considered by local authorities to have been vital. The Oshkosh case was appealed to the county court which it seems has certain civil jurisdiction and is pending before that tribunal.

TRUST IN METERS PROMISED

Attempts Being Made By Manufacturers To Combine To Force Up Prices.

The latest thing in trusts is an attempt, which makes considerable promise of successful culmination, to form a combination among the manufacturers of gas meters of the United States with a view of advancing prices about ten per cent. It seems that there has been an understanding among the majority of manufacturers for some time, but this was insufficient to control prices owing to the independent attitude of the Maryland Meter & Manufacturing Co. This latter concern is now said to be the moving influence in present negotiations.

HOSPITAL PARTY NETS $100

This Is the Estimate Made by President W. T. Vankirk.

All the figures were not in at noon, today, but President W. T. Vankirk was inclined to think that the rink party had netted Oak Lawn about one hundred dollars. Whatever the exact amount, a substantial contribution to the resources of the hospital were made by those who danced in the rink last evening. The building was hung with bunting, five arc lights illuminated it, and the crowd which was not large in the beginning grew steadily during the evening. President W. T. Vankirk called for order at 8:30 and announced Mayor Thoroughgood as the first speaker. The mayor reviewed the history of the hospital briefly, spoke of the bequests that had been made and closed by saying:

"Personally I cannot believe the management of the Oak Lawn hospital would be required to take this present course to raise funds in support of the hospital. Were a vigorous canvass made amongst our well-to-do citizens, I believe they would respond to a call for funds sufficient to place the hospital on a sound financial basis, therefore relieving it from its embarrassing financial condition which confronts it every year."

Capt. Pliny Norcross was introduced to take the place of Stanley B. Smith; Mr. Smith having been called to Chicago on the 7:30 train.

Capt. Norcross did not think that Oak Lawn could be a success when it had not water, gas or electric light. The building was expensive to keep up and not entirely fitted for a hospital. When contributions for aid had to be continually asked for there was something wrong somewhere. The board had better sell it or find out why it don't pay. The two hospitals ought in some way to be consolidated. Some hospital ought to be supported. Oak Lawn too far from the railroad and street cars and was not accessible by bus. If a man was hurt he did not want to be carried a mile and a half to a hospital. Possibly it was too far out. Janesville people had always responded to calls for charity and in some cases where it had been found later that it was not needed. The ladies had always been untiring in their work.

President Vankirk explained that the hospital was not begging and that it was in shape to give the best of care to emergency cases. No one was ever turned away. He hoped to see the mortgage on the building wiped out. Ensign Bennett had left $1,000 to the hospital which had been paid. The late Dr. Palmer had left something to the hospital which had not been paid.

Mayor Thoroughgood declared that Oak Lawn hospital should be maintained. He believed that the institution was needed, and saw no reason why there should be strife between Oak Lawn and the Palmer hospital or why the doctors should boycott Oak Lawn. Mayor Thoroughgood's remarks evoked applause.

Inter spersed with the speeches were selections by the Y. M. C. A. band and songs by the Excelsior quartette—George Robinson, Harry Phillips, Harry Robinson and Harry Garbutt. The Light Infantry orchestra furnished music for dancing.

John Murphy Writes to Janesville Relatives From Chilkoot Pass.

John Murphy, a former resident of this city, is now in the heart of the Alaska gold region.

William Murray, the west side butcher, has an interesting letter from Mr. Murphy, who is his brother-in-law. The writer was about to cross the Chilkoot pass and locate near the Klondike.

"If you don't hear from me for several months," writes Mr. Murphy, "don't feel a bit worried; for I am going into a section of the country where it will be almost impossible to get a letter home."

Mr. Murphy lived in this city eighteen years ago, and of late years has been a western mine prospector.

MANY FREIGHTS GO THROUGH

Heavy Traffic Reported by The Gazette's Afton Correspondent.

Afton, Oct. 7.—Judging from the number of freight trains which are being run over the two lines of its road entering Afton, the Chicago & Northwestern railway is having a decided increase in business, and its freight traffic is picking up as a natural result of better and more prosperous times. That "Happy Hollow" is patriotic and bound to keep up with the procession, is attested by the erection of a symmetrical flag-pole in front of the school house in that district, and the raising thereon, last Thursday, of "old glory" by a squad of veterans from Janesville. The exercises incident to the occasion were of a varied and entertaining character, and consisted of songs, readings and recitations by pupils of the school, an address by Dr. H. A. Palmer of Janesville, short talks by Superintendent Throne, P. S. Fenton and James Hawley, and stirring music by W. H. Sargent drum corps. Supt. Throne presided during the presentation of the program. After the exercises at the school house a picnic supper was served. The school is being taught this fall by Miss Nellie McKean. Corn husking has begun in this vicinity, the dry, hot weather of the past few weeks having made it possible to begin the harvest of this last of the year's crops. Thrashing is all done in this locality. News comes from Neillsville, Wis., of the death of Mrs. Ruane Allison Flynn, which occurred at Chicago, Sunday, September 26, 1897. Deceased was well known in this vicinity, having been a former resident of Afton for several years. Her father, John Allison, being one of the old settlers here. She is survived by her husband, James Flynn, a well known C. & N. W. engineer; three daughters, Mrs. Grace Balch and Misses Jessie and Hazel Flynn and two sons, Floyd and Arthur, all residing at Neillsville; also her aged father and three sisters, Mrs. C. N. Nye and Mrs. Fred Southard of Beloit, and Mrs. T. A. Searls of St. Paul, are left to mourn her loss. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCrea have moved from the village to their farm southwest of Afton to reside. Miss Louis A. Waite left last Saturday for Woodstock, Ill.; where she expects to sojourn during the fall and a portion of the winter. T. B. Eldredge is the possessor of a new road wagon, which he purchased of Giesley Brothers, Beloit. It is a dandy. Mrs. Rose Blunk was over from Hebron, Ill., for a short visit with Afton relatives this week.

BRIDGE BROKE UNDER ENGINE

Porter Brothers Outfit Goes Into the Creek—Safely Evansville Folks.

Porter, Wis., October 7.—Jones Bros., a traction engine while crossing a small bridge near the Wallin residence last Friday broke the bridge. One man sustained a broken leg. It is said they did not use planks as required by law. Maggie McCarthy takes great pride these days in showing to her friends her new "Manhattan." The wheel is a gem and was earned by selling tea and coffee for an eastern firm. Mrs. W. H. Flarity, of the town of Fulton, was a welcome visitor last Friday.

Miss Ward, of Chicago, who is visiting relatives near Union was a caller recently. Mr. George Lyntz has moved his family to the old home—stead again, his mother having gone to Janesville to spend the winter. A very successful mission was given in St. Michael's church, last week, by two Jesuit missionaries. Some of the Evansville swells are feasting on scorched honey, these days, since making a memorable trip into this burg. The next time they come out here in the woods after honey, they will not bring along so many refreshments. There was a glorious flag raising in the Eagle district on Saturday, September 25. A large number of the Edgerton G. A. B. were present, and some fine speeches were made by Superintendent Ross, and Professor Hendrickson of Albion. A good program was rendered by teacher and pupils, after which a bounteous supper was served.

FROM DEATH'S DOOR.

How the Indian's Secret Guided D. T. Campbell Out of the Valley of the Shadow of Death.

Hope, Life and Happiness Now His.

An Example and the Warning That If Followed Will Mean Life and Health to Others.

Mr. D. T. Campbell, residing at Clarkfield, Minn., was a sufferer from a terrible malady, hemorrhages and inflammation of the bowels. The best physicians attended him, without giving him relief. They would patch him up for a few days, when he would have a severe relapse and would be worse than ever. He realized the fact that he was growing worse and worse from day to day, until he at last made up his mind that the medicine he was taking was helping to kill him by inches. The poisonous drugs given him only added fuel to the flame of disease. He was reduced in weight to 135 pounds. He was so nervous he could not endure the sound of a human voice, was subject to fainting spells and it seemed as though he would die from utter exhaustion, and all of this on account of a derangement of that great vital center of the body, the stomach.

It improperly performed its duties, poisonous secretions gathered and became active in his bowels, his kidneys, and his liver became diseased, his blood impure, until it was a matter of a short time before death would have stepped in, had he not as a last resort tried Kickapoo Indian Sagwa. Here is what he says: "When I first began to take your Sagwa was so weak I could hardly take a half teaspoonful. Took this four times a day, using the Oil on my bowels and limbs at points where I experienced the most pain. The Oil would stop the pain almost instantly. On the third day after beginning the Sagwa I began to have an appetite and noticed a marked change. Had no more sinking spells, my bowels became regular and I increased the dose of Kickapoo Indian Sagwa to a tablespoonful, and continued to gain right along. Three months' time found me cured, weighing 178 pounds. Fifteen dollars' worth of Kickapoo Indian Medicines did for me what several hundred dollars paid to the doctors failed to do. I thank God for his having given me the courage to try the Kickapoo Indian remedies, and I implore all suffering humanity to give them a trial."

The above example should be followed by others. Do not despair. While there is life there is hope, and with life and the systematic use of Kickapoo Indian Remedies, health will be restored, sickness become a thing of the past, and to the sufferer who uses these remedies will be given a long life without sickness as was ever enjoyed by the Indians. Kickapoo Indian remedies can be bought of all druggists everywhere.

GUARD AGAINST CHOLERA

Lessons Given to Farmers As To Incorrect Feeding of Stock.

Although no hog cholera has made its appearance in this section of the country this fall the Milwaukee & St. Paul road has an expert around advising farmers and endeavoring to demonstrate experimentally that the hog cholera is not caused by the germ, as it is popularly supposed. The farmers generally cling to the germ theory and insist that the disease is contagious. The demonstrations of the railroad agents in maintaining the bad feeding theory, however, are making many converts and saving the lives of an immense number of hogs.

The Study of Local History.

The precise method of instruction and the thoroughness and extent of the study of the particular topic or period of the city under consideration, must of course be affected by the average age and intelligence of the particular classes. Most people, however, would be surprised to know with what great avidity the children of humble immigrants will enter upon local historical study if they are properly guided. Young workmen and members of working girls' clubs will read standard historical works, when their interest is once aroused, with as much thoroughness and even keener delight than is likely to be shown by the young men of Columbia College or the young ladies of the best private boarding schools. These facts having been demonstrated by experience, it may be said with assurance that the chapters of the City History Club that are located in the thickly populated parts of the town, where the working population lives are disposed to enter upon the study of city history in quite as solid and thoroughgoing a fashion as the members of those chapters that are organized among the more prosperous and better educated. It is hardly necessary to observe that this is a most encouraging discovery. —From "Local History and Civic Renaissance in New York," in American Monthly Review of Reviews for October.

Train Robbers Rounded Up

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 6.—Officers have rounded up all the men implicated in the recent Northern Pacific passenger train hold-up near Moorhead and will gather them in Thursday. All the men wanted are under surveillance. Confessions extorted from a woman by the sweat-box process gave the officers the information needed.

Miners Will Not Starve.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 6.—J. C. McArthur, dominion government surveyor, who just returned from the north, says there will be no starvation in Dawson this winter. When he left there were 2,000 head of sheep and 400 head of cattle on the Dalton trail, which would reach Dawson between Sept. 15 and 20.

For Improved Water Ways.

Davenport, Iowa, Oct. 7.—The convention of the Association for the Improvement of Western Water Ways adopted resolutions demanding of congress the ample protection of the alluvial valley of the lower river from floods, urging the prompt completion of the Hennepin canal, the widening and deepening of the South Pass at New Orleans and the survey and improvement of the Southwest Pass, further improvement of the Mississippi, Ohio, and Illinois rivers, the construction of the Chicago ship canal and improvement of the Chicago river. Memphis was chosen as the next place of meeting.

Thinks Luetgert Will Be Acquitted.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Dietrich Bleckese, the brother of Mrs. Luetgert, and the man who stirred up the police, has given up hope that the state will be able to convict Luetgert of murdering his wife. "I do not think that Luetgert will be found guilty," said he during the morning, having wandered into the state's attorney's office at an early hour and being in a talkative mood. "I don't say he isn't guilty, but it hasn't been shown and can't be shown. They haven't got enough to work from."

A NEW DISCOVERY WHICH IS WORTH THAT MUCH.

To Anyone Afflicted With Piles.

The Pyramid Pile Cure, the new painless remedy which has been so remarkably successful in curing every form of piles and rectal diseases, has recently been placed on sale at druggists and it is safe to say that when its extraordinary merit becomes fully known, there will be no such thing as surgical operations for the cure of this obstinate and common trouble.

Mrs. M. C. Huikly of 601 Mississippi St., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been a terrible sufferer from piles for fifteen years and no remedies benefited me, until I saw an advertisement of the Pyramid Pile Cure; I got a package also a package of Pyramid Pills and used both according to directions. I was astonished at the immediate relief obtained and now I honestly believe the Pyramid to be the only certain cure for piles."

That you may realize how bad I was, I will say that I was confined to my bed and went before the college physicians here who said my case was a new one to them and wanted seven or eight hundred dollars to undertake a cure; the great pain had brought on a rupture, and I know an operation would be death to me on account of blood poisoning. Nearly everyone here knows of my terrible suffering from piles and I feel that I cannot praise the Pyramid Pile Cure enough and the Pyramid Pills also. My husband will join me in highly recommending the Pyramid, my daughter was cured by one box only. For several years I weighed out about 90 pounds, now I weigh 150 and feel in perfect health."

This seems to be the universal testimony of every sufferer from piles who have ever tried the Pyramid; it is the safest, most painless pile cure yet discovered; contains no opiate, morphine, cocaine or any poisonous ingredient, whatever, has a soothing, healing effect, from the first application, and the moderate price places it within the reach of everyone needing treatment. The Pyramid Cure is sold by druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per package and the Pyramid Pills at 25 cents per box. Send to Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich., for free book on cause and cure of piles.

Kankakee Region in Fear.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 6.—The villages in the Kankakee region without fire protection have organized volunteer corps of fire fighters. Patrol is being maintained day and night. Dispatches received here state that the danger is increasing. Within the last two days 1,000 acres lying west of Walkerton have been swept of every vestige of vegetation. The railroads traversing the fire burned regions pass through an immense waste of ashes.

"Many have said their n would have died of croup, if Chamberlain's Cough Remedy had not been given, write Kellan & Curren, druggists, Seaview, Va. Undressed by Lightning

At Arnettville, W. Va., the other afternoon Curtis Miller, a young man, was struck by lightning while walking along the street. The bolt tore his clothing from his body—even to his undergarments—and removed his shoes. Singular as it may seem, he was only stunned a little, and ran a square to his home.

A SIGNIFICANT TABLE.

A document just sent out by the national republican committee adds

the last touch to the destruction of the silver and wheat argument. It contains this table showing the prices of wheat and silver between Sept. 1,

1896, and the beginning of the same month in 1897:

This table demonstrates the falsity of the Bryanite pretense that there was a fixed correspondence between the prices of silver and wheat. At the beginning of 1896, just at the time when the Bryanite canvass was at its height, prices of silver and of wheat, at the unit of each, were equal.

They parted company, however, immediately afterward, and have never been within hailing distance of each other since. Thirteen months ago an ounce of silver would buy a bushel of wheat; a month ago it would have taken over two ounces of silver to do this.

During those twelve months, while the general tendency of silver was downward, the tendency of wheat was just as steadily upward. In the five weeks which have passed since the last entry was made in the foregoing table prices of silver have gone up and down several times and prices of wheat have gone down and up, but they never went in the same direction at the same time.

It is no wonder that Bryan and his partners in duplicity have been recently shamed into dropping their pretense that the price of silver determines the price of wheat.

ANOTHER CHANGE IN SIGHT

When the conservatives gained control in England two years ago it was supposed that they would not be disturbed for ten years. The gains of liberals in the recent bye elections,

however show that a change in party control of the government is likely to come in the next general canvass.

Frequent swings of the partisan pendulum have been the rule in England recently as in the United States. The tory party in the election of 1895

gained one of the largest majorities ever had by any party or coalition in the entire history of the house of commons, yet it has done nothing in the past two years to justify its tribute. In fact, by its shiftlessness in domestic affairs and by its cowardice and vicissitude in its foreign policy it has forfeited the confidence of a large element of the people who helped to put it in power. In the present absence of great leaders among the liberals and of burning issues the tories may be able to hang on to the government

three or four years more, but when the dissolution comes a political revolution is among the probabilities.

THE REAL RELATIONSHIP.

Prof. Coin was right, there is a theory that accounts for dollar wheat.

The trouble was he looked for the wrong relationship. Dollar wheat can't come with free silver. It is a coin with republican success. In 1883 under Arthur, the average price of wheat was 91 cents a bushel. During Cleveland's first term the average was 68 cents. When Harrison was president wheat varied from 84 cents to 93 cents. Cleveland's second election sent it down at once to 63 cents, and it continued to tumble until it reached 49 cents, the lowest price in a century. In the first months of Mc-

Kinley's administration dollar wheat has returned. Now here is a theory, with all the figures open to the world,

that promises to stand the test.

It is a mistake on the part of those who say that the $6,000,000, which they estimate this year's gatherings of the several associations of young

Christians to have cost, would have done more good had it been contributed to the cause of foreign missions, and the young people remained at their homes. The money spent by young people in attending their conventions could hardly have been spent in a way to do more general good than it was. It was put in circulation over a wide area, benefiting thousands,

and those who spent it had their minds broadened in only a trip from one's ordinary surroundings can do it, and when you broaden a person's mind

you make him or her better fitted for life.

It will be noticed that President

McKinley still allows the other fellows to do all the worrying about his

Cuban policy. He has let Spain know what this country desires—peace in Cuba—and calmly awaits

the action of the new Spanish ministry.

It is said that a movement has been started in Central America, having for its object the establishment by the United States of a protectorate over the so-called nations of Central America.

As long as Mr. Bryan can get $500 apiece for his speeches and $1,500 of democratic money for staying out of Ohio, his sympathy with the downtrodden masses remains as strong as ever.

Senator Foraker's return to the stump in Ohio headed off that big batch of democratic lies about his having abandoned the campaign, before they had fairly got started.

Attorney General McKenna has decided that collectors of internal revenue and United States marshals have a legal right to dismiss all deputies appointed by their predecessors.

They make a cog railroad pay on

Mount Washington; such a road ought to be a bonanza on the Chilkoot pass with freight $10 a hundred.

They are having big crops on the other side of the Atlantic, too, but mostly of cabinet complications.

Henry George may think that he is actually in the race for the mayor of greater New York, but nobody else does.

Wonder if Mr. Bryan endorses the stabs administered to free silver by John McLean and Tammany hall?

Some very ridiculous things are done in this country in the name of sympathy for Cuban Liberty.

That $73,000,000 of annual pap gets further and further away from Tammany all the time.

Novak Calls It An Accident.

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Oct. 7.—Frank

A. Novak, the Walford merchant and banker who is charged with the murder of Edward Murray, together with arson and conspiracy, made a confession to C. C. Perrin, the detective, while en route from the Klondike country, where he was captured. Perrin says

Novak claims he had a bottle of whiskey heavily charged with morphine in his store as a trap for robbers who might break in. He says when he and

Murray entered the building he went into the cellar to fix the fire, and when he returned discovered that Murray had taken a portion of the contents of the bottle and was stupid. He put him in bed, went downstairs and lay on the counter to read and fell asleep, and that when he awoke the store was on fire. He claims he tried two times to rescue Murray, but was unable to do so, and then, fearing his story would not be believed, he ran away.

THIS CITY INVITES
THEY. P. S. C. E. HOSTEFFORT MADE TO SECURE 1898
CONVENTION.

Janesville Delegation Takes a Prominent Part In the Appleton Meeting and Will Strive to Have the Next Annual Gathering Held Here—Corrected Programme.

Some of the Janesville delegation to the state convention of the Y. P. S. C. E. in Appleton left at noon today and others will go tomorrow. The delegation consists of Rev. R. C. Denison, John M. Whitehead, Miss Nettie Harrington, Miss Edith Pratt, Miss Nellie Holmes, Miss Gertrude Cobb, Miss Katherine Shopbell, Miss Cornelia Reddy and F. A. Spoon.

Last year Janesville made a vigorous effort to secure the convention and nearly succeeded. The effort will be renewed this year and it is very probable that the 1898 convention will be held in the Bower City. It will bring 600 delegates all of whom expect to pay their board. In Appleton this week the church people furnish rooms free but all meals are served at 25 cents per meal in a Christian Endeavor dining hall. This gives the Appleton people more time to attend the sessions of the convention which are expected to be very interesting.

Miss Nettie Harrington received a corrected programme, this morning. E. A. Story of the Moody Institute, is scheduled for a speech this evening, and F. A. Spoon will respond to the address of welcome. A representative of the city defeated in the location contest the year before, is usually selected for this honor.

Friday will be devoted to general topics, denomination rallies and committee conferences. In the evening John M. Whitehead will speak on "Christian Citizenship."

Saturday will be junior day and Miss Harrington will be in charge. There will be an address by Rev. E. C. Denison in the morning, his theme being "Wanted, Skilled Workers." William Shaw, of Boston, treasurer of the united society also speaks.

The Wisconsin society differs from other states in holding the consecration meeting Sunday before instead of after the convention sermon. The consecration meeting will be held at 9 a. m. Sunday. There will be Christian Endeavor mission service and 4 p. m. a mass meeting in the park. The convention sermon will be preached Sunday afternoon.

DICKERMAN PUT UP
TO BE CHIEF CLERKJANESVILLE MAN WINS WELL-DESERVED REWARD.

Taken Off a Mail Route and Given Charge of the Postal Service In Wisconsin—He Will Make Milwaukee His Headquarters—His Record An Excellent One.

The appointment of F. L. Dickerman of this city, to be chief clerk of the railway mail service, stationed at Milwaukee, was announced at the postoffice department yesterday. The contest for this appointment was a lively one, and Mr. Dickerman is said to have strong competition from others who were in line of promotion, and whose merit markings were well up with his. The appointment is a promotion to fill a vacancy caused by the promotion of Frank P. Smith from the chief clerkship to the assistant superintendent. Prominent citizens in Milwaukee and throughout the state urged the promotion of Mr. Dickerman, and sent strong letters in his behalf.

Mr. Dickerman's assistant in Milwaukee will be Rush D. Simmons, formerly of the Gazette local force.

The new chief clerk went into the Janesville postoffice after clerking in Moseley's book store. When he went on the road as mail clerk he was succeeded in the postoffice by Al Kemmitt.

The Milwaukee Sentinel says: F. L. Dickerman is at present engaged as a railway route agent, with a run extending from Chicago to Ishpeming, Mich., on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. He is about 40 years of age, and first entered the railway mail service from Janesville, Wis. He is a quiet unassuming man, one of those who attend strictly to their duties.

There are many men in this division who are his seniors in point of service, but few who have so good a record. His appointment is due chiefly, it is said, to the recommendations of his superiors to the general superintendent of the railway mail service at Washington, who in turn recommended him to the postmaster general, Frank P. Smith, his predecessor, has been promoted to be assistant superintendent of this division with headquarters in St. Paul.

NOTED SHEEP CASE SETTLED

Long Standing Wixom-Shoemaker Case Privately Settled This Afternoon.

At 3.45 o'clock this afternoon at the request of the plaintiff the court announced that the case was dismissed, the same having been privately settled by the interested parties. It is said that the costs will be paid equally by the interested parties.

Witnesses for the defense were sworn in the Wixom-Shoemaker case this morning. A more thorough effort to build up an alibi for two dogs has never been made in a Rock county court. Among the witnesses examined were Oscar Nelson, Aden Wilson, Arthur Huey, Fred Anderson, Basha Pease, John Biedelman, Charles Shoemaker and E. H. Barker.

Their testimony took into account the condition of the weather the night the sheep were killed, the blizzard that was said to have obliterated wheel tracks and also touched upon the peaceful dispositions and irreproachable ways of the Shoemaker dogs.

The prospective bride is the daughter of Mrs. Emma S. Morse of 152 Cornelia street, while the groom-to-be is a cabinet maker at the Hanson Furniture factory, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Engelbreton. After October 22 the young people will be at home to their friends at the home of the bride's mother.

MYSTERIOUSLY MADE SICK

Beloit People Attribute Recent Illness to a Cheese.

Fully fifty persons, customers of a leading Beloit grocery store were mysteriously made sick recently, presumably from eating a popular brand of cheese. As much of the same kind of cheese had been sold without bad effect before and since a certain cheese was cut, it looks as though the trouble arose from that one.

RACING IN MOSCOW.

Trotting is the most popular sport in Russia.

It is a racing day in Moscow. The course is swept free from snow and follows the wooded shores with red-painted railings on each side, says the Badmington Magazine. On one side is a stand, with seating room for several thousand people, and a special box with tent hangings for the governor general, surmounted by the imperial eagle in gold. In front of this box, lower down, you see the prizes, consisting of gold and silver cups, vases and ornamental pieces, all in Russian style and taste. A bell rings, the course is cleared by mounted gendarmes, and the competitors in due order take their places in front of the stand, but not side by side, as they always start from opposite sides of the course, with heads also turned in opposite directions. The usual race-course hum and noise of the betting men are heard and increase in volume as the bell rings the second time. They are off! and the fascination of rapid motion, open air and strenuous exertion throws its spell over the assembly, high and low, for trotting is certainly the most fashionable and beloved sport in Russia. You cannot recognize people just yet; the great fur collars are raised and reach over the fur caps, leaving only red-tipped noses, beneath which appear never missing cigarettes. The ladies' heads are almost entirely covered by woollen wraps, so here again you can only guess who is who. To a stranger not investing his money in backing his opinion as to winners the game might seem monotonous enough, as the horses do not finish side by side, but in the way they started. Yet the Russians think differently—and, besides, is there not plenty of vodka and caviar to be had between the races.

Single horses are pitted against each other drawing light little sleighs in which the driver is seated very low down and far away from the horse, owing to the long shafts, intended to give the horse perfect freedom of action. A whip is not used, but on the reins are metal buckles over the quarters, which are employed instead, and almost all horses run without blinkers.

Sometimes a horse is attached to the sleigh on one side of the trotter, which is between the shafts; he is the pace-maker and gallops the whole course, whereas, it need not be said, the trotter must not break. Then follow pair horses, harnessed, and lastly troikas with three horses, sometimes four abreast. Troikas are very barbarously gaudy and clumsy things to look at, but exceedingly comfortable all the same.

A New Bicycle Game.

A new bicycle game, or rather a game which can be played on wheels, has lately been evolved by a cycling genius. It is called the Royal game, and requires a court or field divided into alleys. Two teams of nine riders each take part, and the field is divided into a right and left field, with the courses chalked out plainly. An alleyway constructed of ropes or cables, extends from the upper to the lower field on the division line between right and left field. Cables also form two upright sides between which the play-wheel rolls, and is driven backward or forward by the riders in passing at any point between the lower and upper field. The play-wheel is a single bicycle rim, having a four and one-half inch pneumatic tire. The idea of the game is to drive the play-wheel from the center field, through attacks of opponents to a goal ahead, the riders using sticks especially made for the game. The ends of the alley-ways are the goals for the respective teams. Players ride in single file and always circle to the left. Thus the two trains are constantly meeting and passing each other in opposite directions on the upper side of the alleyway. Royal is a game requiring swift riding and much skill, and a novice would scarcely venture to form one of a team.—London Cycle.

Men of Letters.

Of the following letters from London Tit-Bits, the first shows how to be amusing though not Irish, and the second how to be witty with a good chance.

An autograph-hunter, begging a well-known journalist's autograph, wrote: "If you deem the request unwarranted on my part, send the refusal in your own handwriting and with your own signature, that I may know it is authentic."

An Oxford undergraduate wrote to Dickens: "Sir—Seeing that you insert rhymes in your serial, I send you some."

The reply was: "Sir—We don't insert rhymes without reason."

What He Escaped.

An old revolutionary soldier in Portland had a small pension, of which he was very proud, and by doing such work as he could he secured a sufficient income to provide for his modest wants. One day he slipped at the top of a flight of stairs and fell almost to the bottom. The mistress of the house hurried to him in great alarm and asked if he thought he was seriously injured. "I guess not, ma'am," he said, rising stiffly to his feet and gasping with fright; "I don't think I'm killed. But when I was half-way down stairs, ma'am, thinks I, 'I'm a-going to lose my pension, sure!'"—Argonaut.

A Queer Bird.

Officer Fernald encountered a partridge with a brood of young in the highway near Laconia, N. H. The partridge flew at the breast of the horse, scratching with its claws and pecking with its beak, thus frightening the horse, which became unmanageable. As Officer Fernald alighted from the team the mother bird hobbled away.

A BICYCLE TRAGEDY.

A Rash Youth Who Did Not Respect His Sweetheart's Preferences.

He was full of joy, and why shouldn't he be? Wasn't he riding a brand-new wheel, and in another moment wouldn't he be by the side of the creature he adored above all else in the world? asks the Ohio State Journal. Yea, at times he was even constrained to believe he thought more of this beautiful girl that he did of his bike. He dismounted, opened the gate and with a proud step came up the gravelled walk, leading his wheel. On the porch stood the girl who was his promised wife. A happy light shone from her eyes and the glad smile of welcome she gave him made the young man feel at peace with the world. Suddenly the girl cast a swift glance at the new wheel. She trembled and then grew pale. The happy look fled from her eyes and a sudden flush of indignation swept over her beautiful features. Drawing herself up proudly she cast a withering glance upon the young man and said in a choked voice:

"Henceforth, Wheeler Sprocket, we meet as strangers. Our engagement is at an end. You have shown yourself in your true colors. A man who will not respect the feelings of his sweetheart will not love his wife. Go, I say, and never let me look upon your false face again. Oh, I hate you!" and she stamped her tiny foot upon the floor. To say young Sprocket was thunder-struck at this unlooked-for and unaccountable outburst of passion from the girl he adored would put it mildly, indeed. What had he done? he asked himself. Was the girl temporarily insane or was she only rehearsing her part in some private theatrical, wherein she had the role of the innocent victim of man's perfidy? Bracing himself up to the occasion, he managed to exclaim:

"Marguerite, I can't understand your strange actions. Have I really offended you in any way?"

"Offended me, Wheeler Sprocket! You have grossly insulted me. Oh, how thankful I am that I discovered your true nature before it was too late!" and the look of scorn she gave him almost crushed him.

"But, dearest," pleaded the young man, "you will at least tell me what I have done to offend you so."

"Yes," exclaimed the girl, in a mocking tone, "I would play the innocent if I were you. Buy a different make of wheel from mine, parade it before my very eyes and then ask me what you have done!"

Whereupon Marguerite Hamilton, whirled upon her heel, entered her home and Wheeler Sprocket, realizing there was no hope for a reconciliation, mounted his new wheel and rode away.

Few men in this country are better or more favorably known to the drug and medicine trade than Mr. E. J. Schall, buyer in proprietary medicine department of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., St. Louis. He says: "My boy came home from school with his hand badly lacerated and bleeding, and suffering great pain. I dressed the wound and applied Chamberlain's Pain Balm, freely; all pain ceased, and in a remarkably short time, it healed without leaving a scar. For wounds, sprains, swellings and rheumatism, I know of no medicine or prescription equal to it. I consider it a household necessity." Sold by C. D. "I can't see how any family lives without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says J. R. Adams, a well-known druggist, of Geneva, Al., in a letter inquiring the price of a dozen bottles, that he might not only have it for use in his own family, but supply it to his neighbors. The reason some people get along without it, is because they do not know its value, and what a vast amount of suffering it will save. Wherever it becomes known and used, it is recognized as a necessity, for it is the only remedy that can always be depended upon for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. For sale by C. D. Stevens, Pharmacist, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

And Brave Men Wept.

"What was that?" excitedly asked the king, as something whizzed past him as he sat on his horse, watching his troops fighting the enemy, "an arrow?"

"I think not, sire," responded the royal jester, with a low obeisance. "It went too wide for a narrow."

CURRENT TOPICS.

The proposal by the government of Hawaii to arbitrate the difference with Japan, which proposition has been accepted by the latter, is likely to terminate that controversy before the annexation treaty with the United States will be taken up by the senate. It has been supposed that all the differences between the two countries related to the landing of Japanese immigrants, but this is by no means the chief complaint made by Japan against the republic. It seems that the Japanese on the islands use large quantities of sake, a liquor that is imported from their native country. The former duty on this article, collected by the Hawaiian government, was 15 cents a gallon, but a law was recently passed that increased this duty to $1. The bill was vetoed by President Dole upon the ground that it was in violation of the existing treaty with Japan, but parliament passed it over his veto. Against the enforcement of this law Japan protests.

The prime minister of the empire admits the right of Hawaii to pass and enforce all proper regulations in regard to the question of foreign immigration, and also that such a right is inherent in the police powers of any country, but his contention is that the tax on sake does not come within such rights and that it is purely arbitrary and capricious. He does not believe that under any treaty such legislation is warranted or that it will be sustained by any fair court of arbitration.

This is a question in which the United States has a direct interest, for we have always claimed and exercised the right to levy customs duties for revenue or for the purpose of encouraging the domestic manufacture of any foreign-made product independent of any treaty. Whether the Hawaiian parliament imposed its duties on sake for purposes of revenue, to encourage its manufacture at home, or as a sort of punishment to the Japanese who have migrated to that country does not yet appear, but it is likely to be brought out in the evidence that will be presented to the court which will adjudicate the matter.

The abrogation by Great Britain of her trade treaties with Germany has been referred to as an evidence of the unfriendly feeling between the two countries, but this is very far from being true. These treaties were a part of Great Britain's free trade policy and under them she was compelled to put both the Germans and the Belgians upon the same trade footing, in her domestic markets, as the people of her own colonies. In this way it became impossible for Great Britain to give any preference to her own colonies, some of which have commodities that England needs and in all of which there is a growing trade that the mother country now finds it for her interest to cultivate and encourage. Some of the Colonies, like Canada and the Australian, would like to see an imperial Zollverein, but so long as these treaties stood in the way such a movement was impossible.

It is noticeable that within the last five years there has been a very decided change of sentiment in England regarding the colonies and commercial relations with them. In many of the dependencies of the British crown there has long been a hope for what was called imperial federation, and this feeling has been strong in Australia, yet the government, under Mr. Gladstone, would not give the subject even a respectful consideration. But so great has been the change of opinion that Mr. Chamberlain, the present colonial secretary of the British cabinet, is warmly in favor of a closer union between the crown and the colonies. The significance of this is that it indicates a willingness on the part of Great Britain to abandon her world wide policy of free trade and limit it to her own possessions. While this would make the empire more nearly self-supporting than it is at present, it would disastrously affect many other nations.

The United States furnishes England with 40 per cent of her food supplies, while the British colonies contributed only 15 per cent, the balance being provided mainly by Russia and Argentina. If the colonies were to furnish the 40 per cent of the food of England now drawn from the United States it would result in a more serious disturbance to our foreign trade than we have ever yet experienced. There is no doubt that the colonial policy of the empire is soon to undergo a radical change, which has been encouraged by the visit of the various colonial premiers to London to attend the June jubilee, and the abrogation of the German treaties is the first positive evidence that Great Britain intends to draw her supplies from her colonies more largely than she has ever done before, which will mean a restricted market for our own agricultural products.

AN AUTUMN EVENING.

Gray is the sky and gray the fading land. And a thin mist of falling light on the black ridges flickers that ring round this pastoral hollow with its long green lanes. Its ashen shadows and mute slumbering farms. Slow through the meadows steals the leaden stream.

From the plowed upland to the rectory elms the love, the tender, the gray faintly light. As though in the surprised and stricken air A hand invisible for silence waved. About the lonesome grange upon the hill The rising wind of twilight roams and sighs. Searching for something lost or someone gone. And on a low branch of the nearest pine Plains autumn's trembling bird disconsolate.

This saddened vale was once a shrine of light. A radiant figure ranged its solitude. And filled the quiet with intensity. Here the most heavenly of the mornings dawned.

Through placid splendors, in the heights of eve. The chanting dusky choirs sailed stately home. And all the bushes brimmed with bubbling song.

Still—life's eclipse should mean endless night. The love, the tender, the gray faintly light. The fair imaginations that all made. The secret of joy of the wide simple world. Fall not to moldered ruin like the woods. Nor perish as a drifted cloud that melts. Upon the blanched horizon's outmost verge. But breathe and soar and brighten, strong and free.

Untroubled, pure, immortal, near or far. There where we know that the Redeemer liveth. And the lost angels of our heart see God. —Joseph Truman in Spectator.

HER CONFESSION.

Long after the speaker's words had died away the listening people waited in hushed expectancy, unwilling to believe that he had finished and unable to descend all at once from the heights to which they had been raised.

John Ordway and his wife came from the chapel among the last. Both had been strongly moved by the evening's sermon, but in different ways, indicative perhaps of their widely differing temperaments.

Ordway helped his wife into the wagon, the horses struck into a swift trot, and the driver leaned forward to draw the rug more closely about his companion, peering up into her face solicitously.

They moved swiftly past the scattered houses of the village and out into a stretch of open country. Three or four times the woman raised her head as though about to speak, but checked herself with an effort.

"I have something to tell you, John," she said at last. "I am afraid I ought to have told you long ago."

"Are ye sure ye ought?" he asked gently. "Maybe there ain't any need." "There is a need," she answered. "I have known all along that it would be better to speak out, but somehow I never felt that I could until tonight." She paused as though to gather courage. "It's about myself and Willis," she said. "You remember?"

Ordway bent forward suddenly with a warning shout to the horses, and the wagon jolted heavily in a deep rut.

"That's me all over," he said, with a chuckle. "I took special notice of that hole so as to skip it on the way home, and here I am drivin' right into it again, like an old fool. That's what comes of listenin' to sermons ye can't quite understand."

"Won't you listen to me, John?" his wife asked pleadingly.

"Of course I will," he answered, "only my nerves bein' so wrought up I'm sort of afraid to have any big shock come on me sudden, ye know."

Ordway put his arm around her and drew her closer to him protectingly, as a mother soothes a nervous, sleepy child. "I wasn't jokin'," he said. "I'm always glad to listen to ye, only I think ye'd best wait till we get home. We're most there now."

"Go in by the fire," said John Ordway, when at length they rattled into the farmyard. "It'll take me some time to fix things up."

But when he came from the stable, he found her waiting, leaning against one of the square posts of the porch and looking out across the darkness of the valley.

"I wanted to wait until we could go in together," she said.

The long, low kitchen was full of changing shadows, which danced across the time polished floor and lost themselves in the corners of the irregular ceiling, when Ordway crossed to the huge fireplace and piled some sticks of soft wood on the glowing ashes. At length she spoke slowly and with evident effort at calmness.

"You must try to be patient with me," she said. "You'll be astonished, I know, and I am afraid you'll be angry—and I couldn't blame you—but I want you to wait till—till I've finished."

She hesitated as if to gain strength, and he marked how the slender figure quivered with the effort of her hurried breathing.

"I had promised to marry Willis before I knew you," she said unsteadily. "We quarreled about some little thing, and each was too proud to speak first. Finally he went away without seeing me. You know how we heard that he died in Africa. I believed it—we all did—and I cried myself to sleep night after night because I hadn't acted differently."

"As time went on I began to forget little by little, and after awhile it all seemed like a sort of dream. Then you came into my life and taught me to trust you and turn to you for help in everything. And, in truth, I loved you more than you could ever understand."

Her voice trembled. "You believe me, John?" she asked. "Say that you do believe me."

"I ain't never doubted it," he answered softly.

"I was happy and contented for two long years. It was like heaven, and you were happy, too, John?"

"Happy?" he said. "Ah, yes! Nobody'll ever know how much."

"And then little Dora was born," she went on, "and somehow all our trouble began right there, for it seemed as though her baby hands took hold of our hearts and pushed them apart, a little as first and then more and more. Well, things got worse and worse, and when she died I almost believed you were to blame in some way—I don't know how. Oh, it's awful to think about, but I couldn't help feeling that way! Will you ever forgive me for it?"

"I never laid it up against ye," he answered. "I reckoned it was natural, and I knew ye wasn't well, so I tried to forget all about that part of our life, and I done it—almost."

"The rest of my story is harder to tell and harder to listen to. You remember that Willis came back and hunted us up. He came at the worst time for all of us. I was set against you and half wild about baby's death and reckless to everything. He found that out and kept pleading with me and urging me to go away with him. I ought to have sent him away, but I didn't. It was as though some evil spirit put the words into his mouth, and I listened—God help me, I listened."

She started to her feet and stood facing her husband, her arms raised to her head in a wild gesture.

"It was no fault of mine that I did not sin against you in deed as I did in thought!" she cried. "If it had not been for some accident—I don't even know what it was—I should not have been here now. I went to meet him here one night. We were to drive to Oakley and take the train for some place. I waited, I don't know how many hours, but he didn't come. At last I crept home and found you asleep. In the morning when you were away a letter came saying that an unforeseen accident had happened, and he would let me know about it soon. I never heard from him again."

She paused and looked at him fearfully, as though expecting a violent outburst of anger, but he said nothing, and at last she spoke again.

"Won't you speak to me?" she cried tremulously. "Haven't you been listening? Have I done wrong to tell you? Speak to me, for God's sake! I can't bear it."

The words were lost in a storm of sobbing, and she threw herself down on her knees beside him, hiding her face with her hands on the arm of the old fashioned chair.

"Don't take on so, Eunie," he said gently. "Ye'll be glad all the rest of yer life, I think, on account of jest what ye're cryin' about now. Look up, my girl, an maybe I can finish the story for ye. Ye say ye never knowed why he didn't come that night," he said. "I could a-told ye why."

"You?" she cried.

"Yes," he answered. "Jest me. He staid away because I told him he'd better, and he knowed I meant what I said."

"Did ye think I was so blind all them months that I didn't see what was happenin'?" he asked. "I'd a-knowed it if I had been miles away, for there ain't never any trouble in yer heart but what I don't feel it. I jest stepped in an talked to Willis. He understood, an that settled it."

"Then you've known?" she interrupted breathlessly. "You've known all this time?"

He nodded cheerfully. "All this time," he answered.

"But you never said a word to me—you never acted as though!"

"It's always harder for me to talk than to keep still," he said slowly. "Surely ye've found that out long ago. I couldn't a-said a word without makin' things worse, most likely, so I thought the best thing to do was to jest wait—an I've been waitin'."

"Waiting!" she repeated. "Waiting for what?"

"For what's happened, Eunie," he said softly.

The woman was clinging to his arm and weeping convulsively.

"Tweren't yer fault, little girl," he said. "It's jest happened that way. There ain't no need to cry about it now. The time for cryin' is all gone past, an I don't think it'll ever come again."—London Mail.

A Danish Hunting Supper.

The tables are creaking with solid sections of brown, juicy, steaming roasts and piles of mealy potatoes enveloped in hot fog, and long white platters of whole salmon through whose tender torn skin the pink flakes and streaks of white fat look all ready for the limpid golden butter sauce which stands in the brimming little dishes near by. Tall, handsome Danish girls are running hither and thither with chicken soup for this man and hare soup for that man and extricating order from chaos on the table with a marvelous degree of skill. Good nature is rampant, and the fast delivered hearty speeches are followed by rousing, echoing cheers. Cries of "Skol! Skol!" follow every toast in which the Yankee is mentioned, with a vigor which shows how deep and real their feelings of hospitality are, and men come from distant tables to express friendly sentiments toward America and Americans in general.—"Hopkins' Pond," by Robert T. Morris.

A Turkish Cemetery.

Mrs. Max Muller, in her "Letters From Constantinople," gives this record of a visit paid to a cemetery and the curious superstition in regard to burial:

"The Turkish women are fond of spending whole days sitting on their carpet in the cemeteries, not from any deep affection for the dead, for the Turks care little for the body when once buried. The soul, the true being they loved, is safe in paradise, though only from the moment that the body is laid in the ground. For this reason the funerals take place as soon as possible after death, and if you meet a Turkish funeral the procession is hurrying along in what appears to us the most indecorous haste, so that the soul may more quickly attain to its final bliss. A devout Turk passing a coffin will give his aid to the bearers, exhausted by the speed at which they go. This aid, if only given for 40 paces, secures the pardon of a heavy crime."

The Thermo-Ozone Battery A New Discovery for the Cure Of Diseases.

For the First Time Deafness is Cured by Sending Medicine Into the Middle and Inner Ear.

is so thoroughly authenticated by cures that for a limited time, we will give free trial treatments, at our office, for catarrhal deafness; ringing, roaring, or buzzing hissing noises, in the ears positively cured—over 175 treatments given in September without a failure. We treat all disease for which stomach medicine is given. But we GIVE no medicine by the month.
